

COUNTY FINANCES.

The People Not to Know Where the Money Is Deposited.

An Extraordinary Backdown by a Majority of the Commissioners.

What Some of Them Have to Say in Defense of Their Action.

A TRIBUNE reporter started out yesterday to interview some of the County Commissioners on their extraordinary conduct in voting Monday against a motion of Commissioner Fitzgerald to lay on the table a resolution of Commissioner Burling for a reconsideration of the vote by which, at the previous meeting, the following portions of several resolutions introduced by Fitzgerald were adopted:

"Tabled—Whether he (the County Treasurer) is giving up his office to the man who took the bonds or abetting them in any desire to cover themselves from the Assessor."

bonds at 5 per cent.—who would much prefer that the bonds wouldn't be sold, and that bonds should be sold."

Who composed the clique, Mr. Coburn didn't care to state, and the interview closed with an expression of the part that his voice had nothing to do with abetting the men who took the bonds or abetting them in any desire to cover themselves from the Assessor.

MENDOTA, Ill., March 11.—In compliance with the request of many of the most influential gentlemen of LaSalle County, Mr. Stephen Arnold, of this city, has decided to be a candidate for the office of County Recorder, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. C. W. Denhard.

A Republican Convention will be held at Ottawa on the 18th inst. to nominate candidates for the above vacancy, to which Mendota sends ten delegates. The election is ordered for 1st of April.

Mr. Arnold is well known and highly regarded throughout the county as a zealous and upright public official. He has been Justice of the Peace for over ten years and Supervisor for the last three. His excellent character, his knowledge of law, and his ability to transact business in English and German, with equal facility, make him a valuable candidate.

Mr. Arnold's candidacy is difficult to defeat.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1879.

The revival in the iron trade, so confidently predicted for some time past, seems to have begun. The prices of all descriptions of merchant iron were yesterday advanced 5 per cent by the Philadelphia Iron Merchants' Association.

The New York Cardinals and the Philadelphia, Boston, and Baltimore Archbishops have transmitted to Archbishop PURCELL the assurance of their official aid, and their conclusion that the whole of the Church of Rome in America should at once proceed to the rescue of a brother whose situation is so perfectly pitiable. It is hoped that the gigantic democratic impulses of the Catholic Church may be safely directed toward the amelioration of an evil before which any less potent agency would fall in despair.

The message of GOV. WILLIAMS at the opening of the extra session of the Indiana Legislature admits the truth of the charge that the Democrats were responsible for the neglect and mismanagement through which the appropriation bills failed. An attempt is made, however, to locate the blame upon individuals and not upon the party as a whole, but it will be difficult to escape the responsibility in view of the fact that the Republicans, both singly and collectively, have labored earnestly to accomplish the necessary work and avoid the necessity of an extra session.

The discovery is made that under an old and forgotten standing rule of the Senate all removals of the minor officers of that body must be approved by the Vice-President. The rule was framed in the good old Democratic epoch of 1855, and its purpose was to prevent the displacement of experienced and efficient officers by new appointees. It still remains in force, and in moving to rescind the rule the Democrats will be compelled to acknowledge that they do it not to improve the efficiency of the service, which can hardly be done by the dismissal of the experienced clerks and subordinates and the filling of their places by a hungry horde of office-hunters.

Following the fine example set by the Republican City Convention, the Town Conventions have taken pains to nominate some most excellent men for the important town-offices of Assessor, Collector, and Supervisor. The South Town ticket is everywhere commanded as especially strong, and that nominated by the North Town Republicans will no doubt command itself to the taxpayers as worthy of support. It behoves the Republicans of the West Town now to exercise unusual care, to the end that the Republican city and town tickets to be voted on the first Tuesday in April shall contain none but first-class names.

The French Radicals seem bent upon compassing their own destruction by voting to impeach the late Cabinet of ex-President MACMAHON. Such an extraordinary proceeding by a representative Government as to impeach a Minister who has resigned and no longer exists has aroused widespread indignation among the French people of all classes, and is producing a reaction against the Radicals as strong as that which led to the overthrow of the Ministry. Monarchism is already overthrown. Conservatism is threatened on all sides. It only remains now for the Radicals by their insanity to hand the control over to the ultra Reds, and then we may look for disorder, civil strife, and revolution.

MR. LAMAR, in his eulogy of JEFF DAVIS, compared him to PROMETHEUS bound with a vulture pecking at him. To complete his simile he should have said that PROMETHEUS was bound and punished for stealing. And yet the two cases can hardly be called parallel. PROMETHEUS stole fire from Heaven and gave it to men, the most useful of all gifts. JEFF DAVIS tried to steal the Southern States out of the Union, and the arms with which to accomplish it. PROMETHEUS stole for the benefit of the human race. JEFF DAVIS stole to keep a portion of the human race in the most cruel bondage. PROMETHEUS was punished. JEFF DAVIS has not been. If justice had been administered in the one case as in the other, the vultures would have pecked at JEFF DAVIS pendant from a sourapple tree.

From Atlanta, Ga., there comes an account of a most horrible duel, ending in the murder of one of the combatants, the one who was against his will forced into the fearful fight. A business disagreement between Col. R. ALSTON and EDWARD COX, two prominent citizens, was the origin of the trouble, and the pistol was called in as arbiter and avenger. It happened that the man who ought to have been killed was spared, while the man whose life was of some benefit to the community was cruelly butchered. The latter fell a victim to a condition of society in which some degree tolerates the duello as a mode of adjusting disputes, since it appears that no effort was made to prevent Cox from executing his threats against Alston's life. ALSTON was urged to arm in self-defense, but it seems not to have occurred to Gov. COQUETTE and others to whom Cox communicated his bloody purpose to endeavor to frustrate it by placing him under arrest. It was a murder that ought to have been prevented.

The Republicans of the Eighteenth Ward have not yet secured an Aldermanic candidate. The primary meeting tendered the nomination to Mr. WILLIAM H. BUSK, who came out the next morning in a card perceptively declining, for business reasons. We trust the Club will secure the acceptance of some first-rate man. The ward is well provided with excellent material, and it does seem that a good, popular candidate might be selected. The ward pays nearly half the taxes of the North Side, and hundreds of its citizens pay taxes on property in the other divisions of the city, and yet they have been very careless of late about having a good Alderman. Last spring the citizens who profess to be in favor of economy and reform allowed the bummers and tax-eaters to get away with them and elect an Alderman who instinctively acts with the scalawags. There is a Republican majority of 500 to 700 in the ward, and yet, through inexorable apathy and inefficient management, the excellent Republican candidate last spring was beaten by a Democrat who "runs" with the revenue-devourers, and whose highest ambition is to be prodigal with other people's money. The retiring Alderman, takes his record all together, has behaved well and worked for the interests of the taxpayers. Shall his successor be a second JONAS or a man like ex-Ald. KIRK? The Council in becoming too heavily loaded with members of the stripe of JONAS, LAWLER, STAUBER, McNICHOLS, McCARTHY, etc., genus omni, for the public good and taxpayers' safety. While the respectable citizens sleep, the bummers sow tares in their wheat.

THE SPEAKERSHIP OF CONGRESS.

The position of Speaker of the National House of Representatives is one of the most responsible and important offices under the Government. The Speaker is almost always a conspicuous party leader, though his duties require primarily that he shall be unpartisan and impartial in his rulings. There is no man in American public life who has so much dictatorial power as Speaker within his own domain. He nominates all the House Committees, and, in his selection of members, for committee places and Chairmanships, he is able to do more toward shaping the legislation of the session than the party caucus which has placed him in power. His latitude is so broad and his rulings have so much force that he is frequently able to accomplish or defeat any proposed legislation. He may be the terror or the patron of the lobby. He is in direct succession to the Presidency, as the law provides, in a certain emergency, that the Speaker of the House shall become President of the United States. Besides, his opportunities are such that, properly improved, they may be made to further any ambition he may have for a higher place. Altogether, the attributes of the Speaker's position are such as to render him one of the chief men in the nation.

It is not surprising, under these conditions, that the struggle for the position of Speaker should always be animated. It is the place of all others that fills the eye of the ambitious House member. The contest this year promises to be more lively, and perhaps more acrimonious, than usual. The calling of the extra-session shortly after the demise of the old Congress has cut short the usual opportunity for canvassing and wire-pulling which are afforded by the ordinary recess from March to December, and no one person can feel anything like certainty that he has secured a majority of his party caucuses by a judicious distribution of favors and shrewd harmonizing of interests. It was almost a foregone conclusion, for instance, that MR. BLAINE would be elected Speaker of the Forty-third Congress. Mr. KIRK of the Forty-fourth Congress, and Mr. RANDALL of the Forty-fifth Congress, long before the session began; but no one can feel anything like certainty that he has secured a majority of his party caucuses by an equal distribution of favors and shrewd harmonizing of interests.

The Convention nominated another business-man, Mr. MANCUS A. FARWELL, of the long-established firm of GRANNIE & FARWELL, for the office of Treasurer. In this case, as in that of Mayor, the Convention selected a man of business habits and of integrity, and one who will possess the confidence of the whole community.

Col. E. W. RIGGARD, a member of the Bar, responsible for his talents and his acquirements, and well known as a warm-blooded Republican, was nominated for the office of City-Attorney. The fact of his nomination over so strong a man as Mr. TUTTLE, who has so ably and efficiently filled the office for several years, may be considered as decisive evidence of his great personal popularity.

For City Clerk the Convention nominated Mr. PETER BUSHWAH, a young man, a native of this city, of German parentage, who is highly commended by all those who know him as a gentleman of ability and scholarship.

The whole ticket is exceptionally strong and unobjectionable, the Convention acting under the assurance that the most certain way to secure success was by merit.

THE LAW OF STREET OPENINGS.

We have called attention repeatedly to a defect in that part of the general law relating to special assessments by cities, such as the opening or widening of streets or alleys. The present law is clumsy, cumbersome, costly, and admits of delays, that are often fatal to the improvement and injurious to the property interested. The difficulty is in the execution of the present law. Now a proceeding is instituted to condemn the property to be taken and assess the damages to be paid. This proceeding generally results in exaggerated valuations, everybody swearing in the most liberal manner. After this proceeding has been gone through with, there follows a second proceeding to appropriate this expenditure among those who have to pay it according to the benefits.

The first thing is to tax the general public enormously, and then comes the swearing down of benefits, according to which no one is benefited. There is, therefore, a wide margin between the money to be paid out and the money to be paid in. Those assessed to pay protest and refuse, and, as the work cannot proceed until those entitled to damages are paid, the improvement stops; nothing further is ever done—all proceedings are arrested. The property threatened to be improved drops out of market; no one can take the risk of building; streets cannot be paved, and the neighborhood runs into decay. There are at least three striking instances of this at present in this city: (1) North State street, (2) South Dearborn street, (3) South State street. The property on these streets has been ruined by the absence of the abortive efforts to improve the streets by widening and extensions.

The remedy is plain one: There should be one judicial proceeding, including a valuation of damages and assessment of the same evidence applying to the benefits and the damage. Then there would be an end to the business. The assessment for benefits would pay the damages, and as soon as the money was collected the work would go on.

As against BLACKBURN, Mr. RANDALL has some elements of strength and some elements of weakness. It is in his favor that he has made a good Speaker; though a strong partisan, he has been governed in many trying cases by a sense of the serious responsibility which rests upon the office, and which ought always to exclude partisanship. At the same time, his conduct as Speaker, and especially in the making-up of the Committee of Public Works is met by the roguery of the members of the party in his own private interest.

The twenty-eight gentlemen who represent this county in the General Assembly are aware of the paralysis the law inflicts on all such improvements. The Law Department of the City Government is also well aware of it.

The commissioners of Public Works would be appointed by the Court to assess both damages and benefits after full notice, and report the findings to the Court.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE wants to know if the Republicans of Missouri who are "for Grant" are genuine. Has the Board of Trade in St. Louis given Grant the Electoral vote of Missouri to give Grant the Electoral vote of Missouri to the Senate against LEONARD. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

As THE TRIBUNE did not try to elect Mr. FARWELL, the point of the G.-D. is not visible, except in the confession that it has no influence in Missouri, and that its frantic efforts for Grant will effect more harm in that state than good.

The story is as follows:

Mr. DANIA's list of men appointed to office by Hayes, for whom he seems to be in the lead, and the newspapers of Illinois and Iowa should not let go of it until Congress takes up and revokes the extraordinary discretion granted to the Secretary of War in the last hours of Congress.

Some points worthy of attention in this connection are the following:

Senators: Senator FARWELL, who was nominated to succeed Mr. HARRISON, and who was elected.

Representatives: Representative FARWELL,

Abraham Lincoln, and, fees, costs, and expenses.

Net amount collected..... $1,103,250 Paid to counties..... 1,000,000

Amount of surplus tax..... $1,103,250

1877. Total tax levied..... $1,355,382 Abstinent communities and fees.... 30,000

Net tax collected..... $1,116,275 Paid to counties..... 1,000,000

Amount of surplus tax..... $ 116,275

What is done with this annual surplus is not explained, and we do not know, but suppose it is eaten up in the office of the State Superintendent, or somewhere at Springfield.

The statement comes from Washington that Treasurer GILFILLAN has been urging Secretary SHERMAN to authorize the disbursement of some of the $24,000,000 of silver dollars now piled up in the Treasury vaults, and accumulating at the rate of $60,000 a day, but that the Secretary is now averse to paying out this class of legal-tender money without some special authority from Congress.

This is a partial concession on the part of the Secretary, who formerly denounced the disbursement of silver dollars as unjust, but it is still absurd to seek special authorization from Congress for paying Government obligations.

It is evident that the Secretary is now averse to paying out this class of legal-tender money without some special authority from Congress.

A SAD STORY.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 11.—The streets of the city were started by the successive reports of pistol shots in the Treasurer's office at the Capitol. A policeman breaking in the closed door discovered Col. R. A. Alston lying on the floor with the blood pouring from a wound in his head, and Mr. Ed Cox lying near him with a terrible wound in his face, and others in his body. The Treasurer, Renfro and Capt. Neil, the principal Peasant paper, were leaning over Alston and helping him to rise.

The story of the tragedy that culminated in this goes as follows:

Mr. Ed Cox, who was the assailant, was a partner of Gen. Gordon in the convict lease, about which so much has been said. When Col. Alston was in Washington Gen. Gordon authorized him to settle his interest in the lease, as he wanted to wash his hands of the whole matter. Cox had been trying to sell his interest, also, and had arranged to sell to one Mr. Walters if he could control Gordon's share also. Alston found it to Gordon's advantage to sell to a Mr. Howard. Cox tried to persuade him to sell to Walters, and finally said he would kill him if he didn't do it. Alston tried to avoid Cox by dogging him all day. At length Cox drew his knife, and told Alston that he was going to kill him.

Alston said: "You wouldn't kill an unarmed man, would you?"

Cox then said: "I will wait for you to arm yourself."

Alston went toward Capitol Hill, bent upon strolling trouble. He met Gov. Colquitt, who, knowing Cox's desperate character, was very much alarmed for Alston, to whom he was devotedly attached. He begged Alston to go to his office, and remain while he went to see Cox.

Alston said: "You had better let me get a shotgun and kill him, because I know him, and he will kill me if I don't."

He went up to see Cox, and procured a pistol. Cox had already gone ahead of him, and was waiting for him.

Alston went in a side door and avoided him. Cox wrote him a note, asking him to come out on the sidewalk and have it out.

Alston declined, and walked away inside the Capitol.

Cox came in, and, seeing Prof. Moore sitting at a desk, drew his pistol, thinking it was Alston. The Professor, turned, and Cox went on to look for Alston.

He finally saw him in the Treasurer's door, and followed him.

Alston turned as he entered, and said: "Cox, I don't want to have any trouble with you."

"Come out, and let's settle it," said Cox.

"I will not fight you unless you force it on me," said Alston.

"Then I'll force it," said Cox, closing the door.

At this Alston, seeing that a fight was inevitable, said: "Well, then, let's settle it right now. Are you armed?"

Without reply Cox whipped out his pistol. Alston drew also, and, throwing their pistols to a level, they fired straight at each other.

Capt. Nims, who had run in between them, barely escaped being shot. He tried to catch the combatants, who were close to each other, but failed.

Cox was struck in the mouth at the first fire, and, after that, ran about the room, and appealed to shoot at random.

Alston never left his track, but, pale and stern, fired at Cox, shooting Cox's pistol hand the second shot, and shooting him on the third the third time.

At length Cox, having succeeded in getting right up to Alston, fired his fifth shot, and sent a ball through Alston's brain. He had not touched him before that.

These cowards will be removed to Joliet and to Alton, Ill., for life.

THE CITY CONVENTION.

WEIGHT, RICABY, FARWELL, BUSCHWHA.

The Republican City Convention assembled in Farwell Hall yesterday morning, shortly after 10 o'clock. Like the average Republican convention, it was an orderly, dignified assembly, without any of the usual "Democratic nominating circus." Among those present were the following:

Ex-Al. McGinnis, J. H. Clough, Abner Taylor, W. H. King, D. L. Shore, Willard Woodard, Isaac N. Arnold, G. K. Rice, Andrew C. Smith, D. F. Hart, A. A. Sprague, J. H. Rose, Col. John Col. Easton, W. H. Stasz, J. S. Stephens, W. R. Page, Ernest Prue, Andrew Dixon, Hugh Birch, ex-Ald. Campbell, Christopher Tarthill, Gen. Leake, L. Bond, B. L. Hough, Col. A. N. Waterman, C. C. Ebbest, Elias Shippman, Commissioner Collier, El. Smith, D. J. Lyon, ex-Ald. Briggs, Daniel Appleton, R. E. Jenkins, Commissioner Stewart, E. P. Hall, M. Petrie, E. C. Cole, A. N. Eddy, Casper Butz, Ald. Knopf, Ira Buell, John Lyle King, Commissioner Spofford, Ald. Smyth, Sam Colyer, William Stewart, ex-Ald. McGehee, Hermann Benz, ex-Ald. Gilk, Representative Clark, Conrad E. F. C. Kloke, Chris Mamer, Col. Schaeffer, R. S. Critchell, O. W. Barrett, ex-Ald. Woodward, Frank Adams, William Vocke, and others.

The Committee finally returned, after having been sent for several times, and reported through Mr. Frake, its Chairman, in favor of the "regular" in the Eleventh Ward.

The Committee's report recommended the admission of both sets of delegates, giving each delegate a half-vote.

Mr. Page, of the Second Ward, entered his protest. As one of the Committee, he presented a minority report in favor of the Taylor-Dixon delegation.

Mr. Woodward, of the Third Ward, moved to amend the Committee's report so as to admit delegates elected at the polls. [Applause.]

The roll was called on the amendment, and the Convention, by a vote of 84 to 54, decided in favor of the Taylor-Dixon delegation, which was put to a vote.

The motion was put and carried, amidst loud applause and enthusiastic cheers.

On motion, Messrs. Frake, Taylor, and Hammett were appointed a committee to wait on Mr. Wright and report to him.

CITY ATTORNEY.

The Convention called to order about half-past 10 o'clock by Mr. J. H. Clough, Chairman of the City Central Committee, at whose request the Secretary of that Committee, Mr. Chris Mamer, read the call.

On motion of Col. Abner Taylor, Mr. E. G. Heil was chosen temporary Chairman. On taking the chair, he said he saw before him an eminent business man. He believed this was a business Convention, and would, therefore, not inflict upon it anything like a speech. He trusted that the nominations made would be as much to credit to the Republican party—

the City of Chicago. [Applause.]

DELEGATES.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll. Some laughter was created when the Convention struck two contesting delegations in the First and Second. The two double delegations was voted in the Eighteenth.

On motion of Commissioner Spofford, a Committee of Credentials was chosen, consisting of one delegate from each of the wards in which there was no contest, to consider the contests in the First and Eighth. By a subsequent motion each contesting delegation was allowed one representative to present its claims.

The Committee then retired to deliberate.

While the Committee were out there were repeated calls for and he finally arose to the seat, and said he was very much obliged to the Convention for calling on him, but there were men present who were more familiar with what pertained to the election than he was.

Government bonds are in moderate demand. Purchasers are mainly small investors. Prices had a slight downward tendency. The 6% of 1887 declined from 100% to 103%; the 5% of 1887 remained unchanged at 101%; as did the 5% of 1890, 102%; and the 10-40s, ext., at 101%. The 5% of 1881 declined to 104%. The 4% remained at 105, the 4 per cent at 100 to 100%, and the 3% at 120%.

Gold is nominally quoted at $2.00 per $1,000 for large amounts, and 100% for small lots, but the quotation is nominal, as there is no demand.

Foreign exchange in Chicago was slightly firmer on account of the change in the price of New York exchange. The market in New York was steady, with larger offerings.

Sterling grain bills were 454, and French bills 5214. The actual Chicago rates for sterling were 450 and 450%. In New York the actual rates were 450 and 450%. The posted rates for stocks were 450 and 450. French banks' bills were 515.

St. Louis & San Francisco shrank in the market, and was quoted at 64%. The Kansas Pacific bonds were usually active, and, after declining 10% per cent, recorded an advance of 7% per cent for First Division trust receipts, and, with coupon certificates, sales being made as high as 485%; sight, 485%.
